

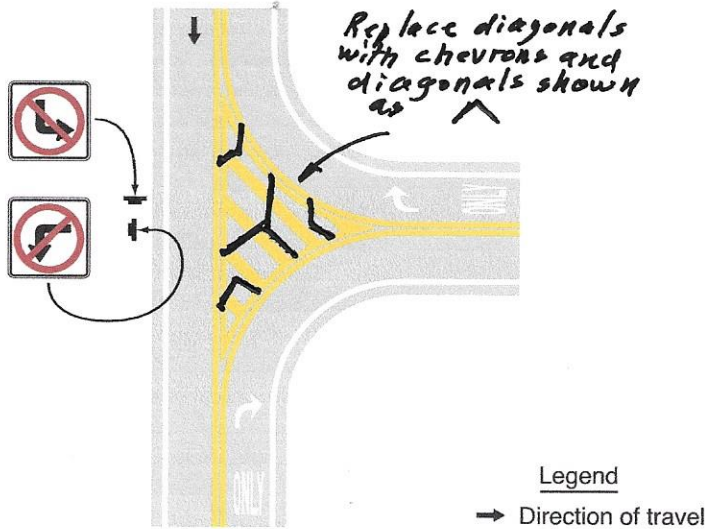

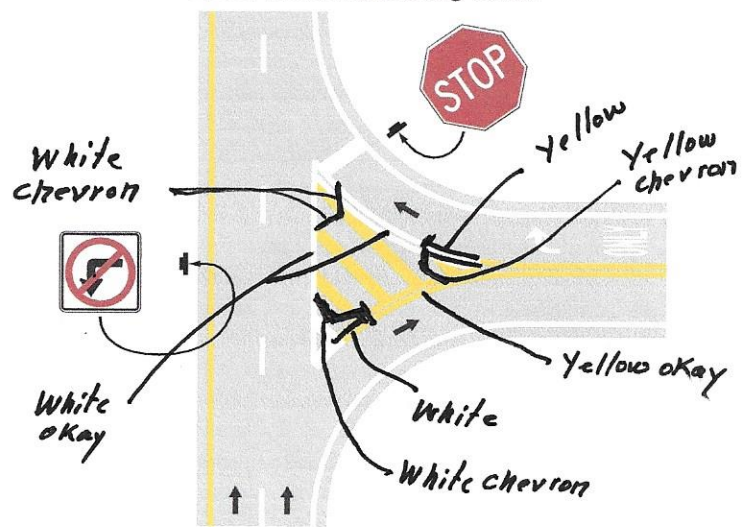

Figure 3J-2. Examples of Islands Designated by Pavement Markings

A. Separating Opposing Traffic Flows in All Directions

B. Separating Opposing Traffic Flows in an Intersecting Street

Section 3B.25, #02

"Chevron markings should be used ...

G. In neutral areas of islands (see Figures 3J-1 through 3J-3)."

The approach to a convergence or divergence should be white with a white chevron when in same direction and yellow with a yellow chevron in opposing direction per Section 3B.25, #04 and #07

Section 3B.25, #07

"When diagonal markings are used in paved areas that separate opposing directions of traffic, they shall be yellow diagonal markings that slant away from traffic ..."