People traveling by pedaling bicycles on our Public Right of Ways are using one of the legal/valid Slow Moving Vehicles. They should wear a nylon S.M.V. triangle on their back side and use amber/yellow flashing rear lights. NO pollution and takes less space to park it.

Thanks for the good article on the subject!

If you've heard as many times as I have that "Share the Road goes both ways" (generally told to a cyclist by a non-cyclist), you soon realize how important it is to remove that confusing signage. People simply read it as "Share the Lane" and that's not what it says nor means. Before installing new signage (BMUFL), we must first remove the "share" signs. A diamond with a bicycle on it gives the intended message: There are likely to be cyclists here - watch for them. Once we get that easy step done, then we can think about how much sense it makes to add BMUFL signage. I agree that
